Our Thanks

For several years, various police forces have deliberately ignored the activities of Asian grooming gangs defiling white schoolchildren. Race, was a major factor in the gangs activities, as they never seemed to target Asian-Muslim girls as their victims, only whites. The racial identity of the perpetrators of these horrific crimes was also a large factor in the reluctance of some senior police officers to investigate the crimes robustly, for fear of upsetting the Muslim "community", and being labelled "racist". We, at League Sentinel, firmly believe, if it were not for the magnificent efforts of British nationalists, led by the English Defence League, holding marches and "flash demonstrations", the scale of the sexual abuse would still be unknown. The EDL, later supported by the BNP, NF and British People's Party activists, eventually embarrassed the authorities into action. Well done, and please keep up the good work!

Our Thanks 2

The recent election results were not good news for British nationalists. No doubt, throughout the country, some will think about abandoning the struggle, thinking it is un-winnable. Elections are hard work. I have done my share of door to door canvassing and leafleting and have shared the disillusionment of a poor result. But to abandon the struggle is unthinkable. The consequences will be to sacrifice the future of our race and nation, the heritage and the futures of our children and grandchildren.

Our heartfelt thanks go out to all nationalists who stood as candidates, election agents, canvassers and leaflet-bashers. Please don't abandon the struggle. The consequences are too horrific to imagine. The battle is there to be won.

If the Spirit lives, the rest will follow!

PAEDOPHILE SCUM

But Why Were They Allowed to Get Away With It For So Long ?

As nine men, all Muslims, were jailed at Liverpool Crown Court, for sexually abusing young white schoolgirls, the question is being asked, "why were they allowed to get away with their sickening crimes for so long"?

The Crimes

A group of twelve men, all Muslims and mostly of Pakistani origin, were charged with sexually abusing and raping girls as young as 13, over a four-year period. All the offences took place in or around the Rochdale area. Two men were acquitted, and a third, Mohammed Shazad, fled to Pakistan. The remaining nine were jailed for between 4 and 19 years. Much of the abuse took place in a local takeaway where vulnerable young girls were given drink and free food and encouraged to go upstairs to have sex with takeaway workers and local taxi-drivers.

One of the Rochdale takeaways that was the centre of the sexual abuse of white schoolgirls

The gang raped and abused as many as 47 girls, some as young as 13. All of the victims were white. Two girls were made pregnant including a 13 year-old. One victim said she was forced to have sex with 20 men in one night after being plied with alcohol. The police believe the girls were shared around up to 50 Asian men.

The "Cover Up"

It has been acknowledged, that some school authorities and social services personnel, were aware that there was a "problem," but neglected to act, over fears of "demonising" the local Muslim community. When a 15 year-old girl, one of the gang's victims, reported her abuse to Greater Manchester Police in 2008, the low quality evidence gathered by a "less than robust" investigation, gave the CPS the excuse not to prosecute. This decision was condemned by the former Labour MP, Ann Cryer, who said, "This is an absolute scandal. They, (the police and CPS) were petrified of being called racist and so reverted to the default of political correctness". Even today, Greater Manchester Police refuse to acknowledge the racial element behind the crimes. Perhaps they need reminding of the words of Sir William Macpherson, "that a racist incident is any incident which is perceived to be racist by the victim or any other person".

The Accomplices

Throughout the investigation, local police said they had faced a virtual "wall of silence" from within the local Muslim community. Given that at least 50 members of a relatively small community, are suspected of involvement in these horrific crimes, it is inconceivable that others in the community did not know what was going on. Yet nobody came forward to the police. In fact, two prominent members of the community, Councillor Aftab Hussain, and the former Mayor of Rochdale, Councillor Ai, both gave glowing references to the court about one of the accused, Abdul Qayyum, saying "he has always been involved in community activities and is one of the men the community has really taken to". Qayyum was sentenced to five years imprisonment!

It is this type of community support that makes the indigenous white community suspicious that, large elements of the Muslim community, were complicit in the crimes. The very silence of the community condemns them as accomplices! Perhaps it is now time to introduce a form of "collective punishment" for this type of crime. Foreign-born paedophiles should be automatically deported to serve their sentences, along with their immediate families. Family assets should be seized and used to compensate the victims. Draconian measures are needed. The indigenous white communities will not remain placidly tolerant forever!

NEWS AROUND BRITAIN

IMMIGRATION

Still they pour in

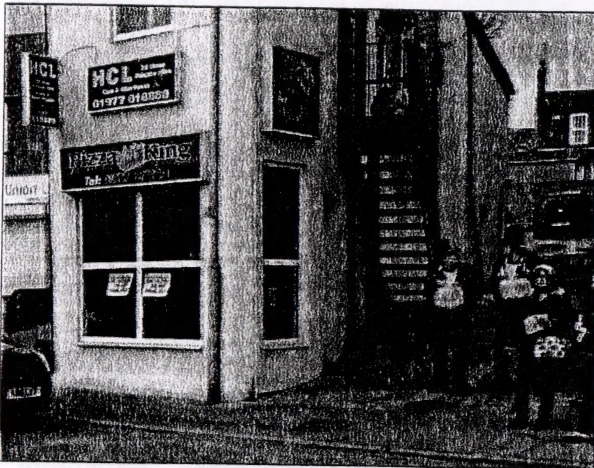

Immigration is at a record high, despite Government promises to reduce the number of long term migrants entering Britain, to less than 100,000 a year.

Official figures revealed that in the first nine months of 2011, over a half a million immigrants were allowed entry into our already overcrowded Isle. While applications for student visas have dropped by up to 60% in the same period, a total of 590,000, long-term, economic migrants, looking for jobs and homes have been allowed to settle in Britain.

Nationalists in Paedophile Protest

Nationalists from the British People's Party, the National Front, and the Infidels of Britain, held a demonstration outside HCL Taxis in Hemsworth, near Pontefract, protesting over claims that several Asian drivers working for the company, have been arrested for allegedly molesting underage girls.

Scene of the Protest: HCL Taxis, Hemsworth

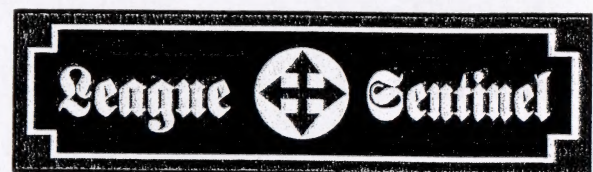

As advance notice of the intended demonstration had not been given to the local police, a large crowd of local people had gathered outside the taxi office before the police arrived. The protest was allowed to continue peacefully, and no arrests were made.

A BPP spokesman told League Sentinel, they would continue to monitor the situation at HCL, and did not rule out further demonstrations.

Afghan War Will Cost Britain $20 billion

The war in Afghanistan will have cost the British taxpayer approximately £20 billion by the time our troops end combat operations and hand over control to Afghan forces in December 2014. Over 416 British servicemen have lost their lives in the country, with more than 20 of them killed by members of the Afghan security forces that they are supposed to be training.

Almost 100 members and supporters, of the National Front held a highly successful St George's Day rally in Newcastle City Centre. Public reaction was very supportive and the NF took the opportunity to distribute election leaflets. A small contingent from UAF attempted to hold a counter-demonstration, but was easily contained by the local police.

Early-morning motorists, travelling to or from Leeds via the busy M 62 motorway, were greeted with a large banner draped across the motorway proclaiming, "BAN HALAL MEAT".

By morning rush-hour, with motorists reduced to a crawl, many drivers honked their horns, apparently in support of the message.

The banner was erected by members of the anti-Islamisation protest group, the "North-West Infidels", who have promised to repeat the protest again in the future.

Obituary

Jonathan Bowden

It was with great sadness that we learned of the recent death of Jonathan Bowden. Jonathan was a brilliant speaker, who cut his political teeth as deputy-Chairman of Western Goals. This was followed by involvement in the Revolutionary Conservative Caucus and later, the Bloomsbury Forum. In 2000, he was one of the founder members of the Freedom Party, and later joined the British National Party, where he held the post of BNP Cultural Officer. At the time of his death, Jonathan had been active in the, New Right organisation. His death, is a loss to the entire British nationalist community

DEMOCRACY UNDER THREAT AS REDS RIOT IN BRIGHTON

A march and rally, held to celebrate St George's Day, came under sustained attack by violent left-wing activists, who threw bottles and other missiles at the marchers, in the Sussex seaside town of Brighton. The march, held annually for the past five years, was organised by a non-political group, "March For England".

MFE, invited patriots from all nationalist groups, on the condition they did not display any political symbols, and this was strictly adhered to. On the day, some 150 members and supporters of the League of St George, BNP, NF, English Defence League, and British Movement were joined by dozens of families, including women and children, all looking forward to a day at the seaside, celebrating our "Englishness", by "Marching For England". But the extreme-left, had other ideas. Unite Against Fascism and the Socialist Workers Party, organised a counter-demonstration. In the weeks before the march, extreme-left blogs alternated between calling for the "March For England" to be banned, or threatening to "smash the march" if it went ahead. As the march set off from Brighton railway station, approximately 400 left-wing protesters, including sinister, masked, black-clad Anarchists, lined the marcher's route, throwing bottles and other missiles at the marchers. A 10 year-old girl, on the march with her family, was hit on the head with a bottle, but bravely completed the march. Several woman marchers were also struck by missiles.

attacks, they too came under fire from the demonstrators. Two police officers were taken to hospital with head wounds caused by bottles being thrown, and several police horses, targeted by the extreme-left, also suffered cuts and bruises. Eventually police forced back the demonstrators using batons and pepper-spray. Three demonstrators were arrested. The march concluded peacefully in Victoria Gardens, and the marchers were escorted by police back to the railway station. Police later confirmed that none of the MFE marchers had caused any trouble.

When police with riot shields intervened to stop the

Anti-Democracy Campaigner Led Away by Police

Somewhat bizarrely, despite the injuries sustained by police officers and police horses, the local MP, Caroline Lucas of the Green Party, has raised concerns over "police heavy handedness."

The future of demonstrations in Brighton is now being discussed by the Green Party controlled town council, but as the local, "Brighton Argus" newspaper commented, "you cannot choose in a democracy which protests you allow".

Banning peaceful marches and rallies, on the grounds that they might provoke violent opposition, is also a dangerous route to travel. Brighton hosts one of Britain's largest, "Gay Pride" marches annually, and this could become the target of counter-demonstrators solely intent on having the march banned.

Hitler's Family Grave Desecrated by Authorities

Church authorities in Germany and Austria, are rapidly becoming the continental equivalent of the mid-Victorian grave robbers, Burke and Hare, after they ordered the gravestone of the parents of Adolf Hitler to be destroyed.

Vindictive church authorities in Austria, have removed the gravestone of Adolf Hitler's parent's, Alois and Klara Hitler from their grave in St Michael's church, Leonding, following complaints that it had become a shrine for neo-Nazis. The local priest said that anti-Fascist campaigners had complained about the large number of "far-right" visitors paying their respects at the grave. Hitler's father, Alois was buried there in 1903 and his mother, Klara, joined her husband in 1907. The remains of Alois and Klara have been left undisturbed, but the grave is now available for other people's remains to be interred.

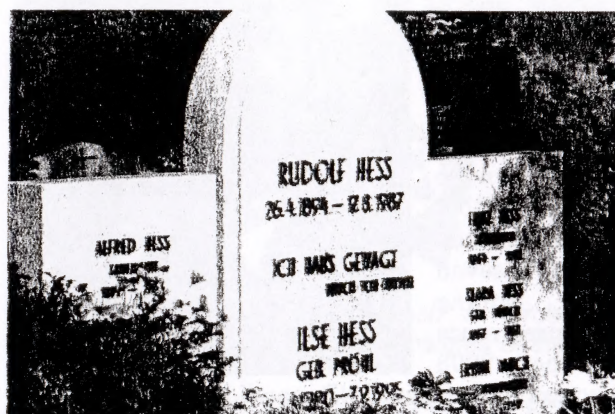

The young Adolf Hitler lived in the town from the age of 9 until he was 15. His former home is still standing, and is used by a local undertaker to house coffins.

Hess requested in his will that he be buried in the town that he had grown to love as a child, when the Hess family owned a holiday home in the area.

The Mayor of Wunsiedel, Karl-Willi Beck, said the decision to exhume the grave had been made by church authorities, and that Hess's remains would be cremated and scattered over an undisclosed location at sea. He refused to say who had made this decision. Since his suspicious death, while under guard in high security Spandau prison, thousands of nationalists from all over the world have made a pilgrimage to the grave, to pay their respects to the man who, single-handedly sacrificed his freedom and ultimately his life, trying to bring an end to the fratricidal war between Britain and Germany in 1941.

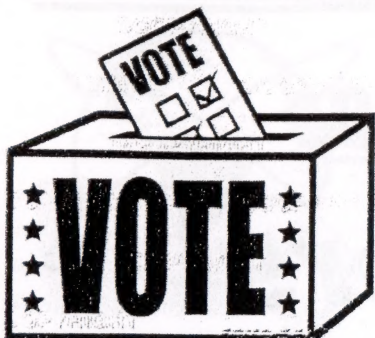

Alois and Klara Hitler's Grave before the Desecration

The Grave of Rudolf Hess

The desecration of graves associated with European nationalists began in 2011, when the church authorities in Wunsiedel, Bavaria, decided to exhume the remains of Adolf Hitler's deputy, Rudolf Hess from the grave he had been buried in since his suspicious death in 1987.

It is unclear what has happened to the remains of Hess's parents and those of his wife Ilse, who were also buried in the grave.

2012 ELECTION REPORT

BNP Support Drops in London: National Front Get Some Good Results

The successes of nationalist parties in Europe were unfortunately not reflected in the British elections. This was despite the British electorate clearly voting on national concerns, rather than on the local issues that should have dominated these elections. Much of the media focus was on the London Mayoral elections, and as usual, the vast majority of media coverage was given to the establishment candidates.

In the London Mayoral elections, the BNP introduced a new candidate, Carlos Cortiglia. Mr Cortiglia, a former BNP Press Officer, seemed to be a more than capable candidate, but as a relative newcomer, he was unknown to most London voters, compared to the BNP's previous high-profile candidate, Richard Barnbrook. Mr Barnbrook was a BNP councillor and leader of the opposition in the London Borough of Barking, and a well-known, and popular figure.

Unfortunately, Mr Cortiglia (pictured right) and his campaign, received only scant media attention, which didn't help his cause. When the results were announced, the BNP candidate had finished last out of seven candidates, polling 28,751 first preference votes. In the 2008

Mayoral election the then BNP candidate, Richard Barnbrook, polled over 69,000 votes.

In the election for the London Assembly, the BNP polled just over 47,000 votes, well down on the 130,000 that they polled in the 2008 election.

The BNP vote suffered in much of the country, and they were hit particularly badly in the West Midlands and their Essex heartland. But they were not alone. Despite the massive media coverage given to the establishment parties, both Tories and Lib-Dems lost hundreds of council seats.

There was a much brighter picture in Salford, Greater Manchester, where the voters were electing a Mayor for the first time. On a poor turnout, the BNP candidate, Eddy O Sullivan, polled just over 2000 votes (4.5%) beating the Green Party and English Democrat candidates. If the local party can maintain its excellent grassroots community work, the area could prove quite fertile in the future. In Irwell Riverside, the BNP candidate finished second, beating both Tory and Lib-Dem candidates, and in Pendlebury, the BNP candidate attracted more than double the votes of the Lib-Dems and Green Party candidates.

The English Democrats

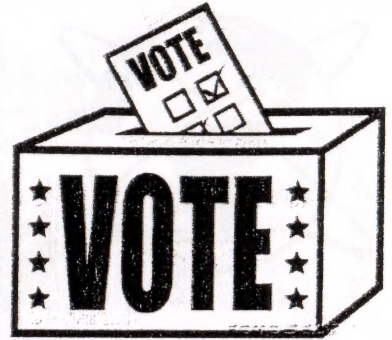

The English Democrats, still a relatively new party, fielded just over 100 candidates in the local and mayoral elections in England, but did not contest the important London Mayoral election for some reason. The party did contest the Mayoral election in the Labour stronghold of Liverpool, and polled 1.42% of the votes, beating both the BNP and National Front candidates.

In the Salford, Greater Manchester Mayoral elections, they polled 3.6% votes. In the London Assembly elections, the party polled 22,000 votes, beating, the extreme-left, Trade Union & Socialist Coalition, and the National Front. In Epping Forest, the EDP leader, Robin Tilbrook, polled 13%, against the BNP candidate's 11%. Thus splitting each other's vote.

2012 ELECTION REPORT

The newly resurgent, National Front, did not field a candidate in the London Mayoral elections, and only fielded a few candidates in the London Assembly elections. Despite this they still managed to attract just over 8000 votes. Unfortunately the NF often had to compete against candidates from the BNP and English Democrats, which inevitably split the nationalist vote.

As would be expected, there were several new faces amongst the NF candidates, but it was nice to see some of the old stalwarts, such as Richard Edmonds (Havering) and Derek Beackon (Thurrock) still active.

NF Candidate: Richard Edmonds

In many other parts of the country the NF did relatively well.

In Rossendale, Lancs, the NF candidate, Kevin Bryan polled just over 16%, an increase of 4% from the last election, and in Howden, North Tyneside, Bob Batten of the NF, polled 10.5%, finishing second in the poll, beating both the Lib-Dem and Conservative candidates. Even better was the result in Tilbury, Essex, where the NF candidate, Mike Griffin, polled 16.9% and also beat the Lib-Dem and Tory candidates.

Despite media bias against nationalists, National Front candidates managed to beat establishment party candidates in, Hull, (double the Tory vote), Southcoates, (beat both Lib-Dem and Tories) Rochdale, Dudley, Sunderland, Knowsley, (double the Lib-Dem vote), Basildon, Grays, Stanford East, and Chadwell St Mary, where veteran nationalist, Derek Beackon achieved treble the Lib-Dem vote).

+ + + + +

So the battle now begins for all of the nationalist parties, to win back the support of their local communities, for that is where elections are won or lost. Nationalist candidates need to be a prominent part of their local communities, and can very often become the spokesman for white voters in areas where there is a large ethnic population. "Carpetbagging" by leadership figures must stop. Encourage, and train local candidates. Win back the trust of local people.

Front National Polls 6 Million Votes in Presidential Election

Marine Le-Pen Comes Third

Marine Le-Pen, the charismatic leader of the French patriotic, Front National party, attracted over 6.4 million votes in her bid to become France's next President. The voting figures represented 20% of the turnout in the first round of voting. In the weeks leading up to the election, some political pundits were suggesting Ms Le-Pen could finish second in the election but, the incumbent President, Nicolas Sarkozy, decided to hijack many of the FN's policies to gain support for himself.

Marine Le-Pen

Following the election count, Sarkozy appealed to Ms Le-Pen to persuade her supporters to vote for him in the final round against the Socialist candidate Francois Hollande, but Ms Le-Pen, told thousands of her supporters at their annual Joan of Arc day rally, that Sarkozy was a liar, who had years in power to introduce patriotic policies, but had only become a "patriot" at election time! She urged her supporters to cast blank votes, saying that neither candidate was good for France. In the final round of the election, Sarkozy was defeated.

France Deports 33,000 Illegal Immigrants

The French Interior Ministry has announced that 33,000 illegal immigrants were deported from the country in the past 12 months, a 17.5% increase on the previous year. The French Interior Minister, Claude Gueant, told the national media that France would continue to actively pursue illegals, and expected an even higher number of deportations in the following 12 months.

Two radical Islamists, Almany Baradji, and Ali Belhddad, were deported from France, just hours after an expulsion order was signed banning them from the country on the grounds of "public good". No appeal was allowed.

Spain

British Illegals Now Target Spain

Immigrants who entered Britain illegally, are now paying people-smuggling gangs to get them out of Britain and into Spain. The Spanish, Guardia Civil police, have reported a large increase in the number of illegal immigrants being discovered hiding in the back of lorries arriving from Britain. Five smugglers of Pakistani origin have been arrested. Immigrants told police that they had paid 10,000 euros each to be smuggled into Spain and to be provided with false work permits.

Anti-Islamists Hold Successful Rally in Denmark

Over 300 delegates from Denmark, Britain, Germany, Sweden, Poland, and the Netherlands, European groups concerned with growing Muslim influence throughout Europe, gathered for the first Europe-wide meeting and rally in Aarhus, Denmark. Tommy Robinson, from the English Defence League, spoke alongside speakers from the Danish Defence League and the, Stop Islamization of Europe group. A counter-demonstration by Islamic groups and black-clad Anarchists, attacked police with rocks and bottles, but failed to stop the gathering. Police arrested 80 counter-demonstrators for causing disorder and assaulting police.

Greece

Massive Gains for Greek Patriots

The Greek nationalist party, Golden Dawn, gained a massive victory in the May 2012 national elections obtaining 7% of the popular vote, and winning 21 seats in the Greek Parliament. These are the first seats the party has won at national level although, in 2010, Golden Dawn won 6% of the council vote, enough to give them one seat on Athens City Council.

Golden Dawn Defends Greek Democracy

As the result of the national election did not give enough support for any one party to form a government, and attempts to form a coalition failed, new elections have been arranged for June 17th.

A Golden Dawn spokesman told League Sentinel that the party was "hoping to increase its support".

Israel

Iran is NOT Developing Nuclear Weapons Says Israeli General

The head of Israel's military, Chief of Staff, Major-General Ganz, shocked the Israeli media recently, when he told a press conference that he does not believe Iran will develop nuclear weapons. He told the assembled media, that despite popular opinion, Iran's leadership was "composed of rational people" and that a decision to produce a nuclear bomb "had not been made". His views have made General Ganz very unpopular with some Israeli politicians who seek any excuse to mount an attack on Iran.

Iran

Iran has publicly executed one of the men involved in the assassination of an Iranian Nuclear scientist in 2010. Iranian, Majid Fashi, was identified as one of the bombers, when the whistle-blowing website, Wikileaks, published top secret US Intelligence documents, identifying Fashi as a spy working for the Israeli intelligence service, Mossad.

Australia

Share Your Homes With Refugees Asks Australian Government

The Australian, Labour-controlled Government, are offering to pay up to $300 a week, to Australian families that are willing to accommodate asylum seekers in their homes. The move comes, as more than 17,000 economic refugees have arrived illegally by boat in the past few months, swamping the Immigration Department's detention facilities.

Illegal Immigrants Arrive by Boat

An opposition spokesman claimed that most of the asylum seekers to be accommodated in citizen's homes, will be males, aged between 18 and 25, who have been released from detention centres on "temporary visas".

Nation*Europa*Welcomes

The League of St George would like to welcome the Spanish patriotic group, Devenir Europeo to the "Nationalist Family of a United Europe." Registered with the Spanish Home Office as a Cultural Association, it openly follows the path of National Socialism, with a mandate to preserve European traditional culture, and its ethical and spiritual values.

Core Values

The word, Europe, designates for Devenir Europeo, a historical and cultural unity that goes beyond the existence of the present states. "We defend the idea of a united Europe, but not of the purely materialistic nature, but spiritually and socially united, respecting, at the same time, the national idiosyncrasies".

"The European nation must never be under the direction of persons or institutions alien to our culture and our values".

National Conscience

Devenir Europeo believes that even within a United Europe, national identity and cultural differences must be preserved.

"We defend the national identity of all the peoples who form our ancestral Europe. An attitude of respect to the idiosyncrasies of every nationality is our best guarantee for building a true Europe, strong and united."

Ecology, Nature and Animal Welfare

Along with the sanctity of family; ecology, nature and animal welfare are high on Devenir Europeo's priorities. "The feelings of defence of the land and love for the animals are amongst the highest of our culture. A healthy ecological conscience and respect for nature will be encouraged."

* * * * *

Devenir Europeo members enjoy a variety of indoor activities such as cultural visits to museums, exhibitions and traditional festivals, as well as outdoor activities such as mountain walks and weekend camps. Although pledged not to become a political party, they do hold political training courses and workshops on the value of real politics within the social, cultural and artistic facets of society.

Devenir Europeo can be contacted via : Apdo. De Correos 8231-08080. Barcelona. Spain. Or via their website: www.devenireuropeo.org

Social Conscience

Social justice is very much to the fore of Devenir Europeo's priorities. "We will equally fight against the capitalist free market that converts men into mere machines, and the false communist policies that ignore the personality of men."

"We will especially defend the workers on the land and the manual workers, because we consider them to be the true essence of the nation."

BOOK REVIEWTOMORROW WE LIVE

by .. Sir Oswald Mosley

Born in 1896, Sir Oswald Mosley has been described, as a man who could have been the British Prime Minister. However, he regarded the system of Government as being deeply flawed in the sense that it was just a talking shop in which nothing serious could ever be done. While Parliament talked, amended, argued and delayed, real power rested elsewhere. By that he meant, with the great International financial interests which really dictated any course of events. His answer was a British variety of Fascism.

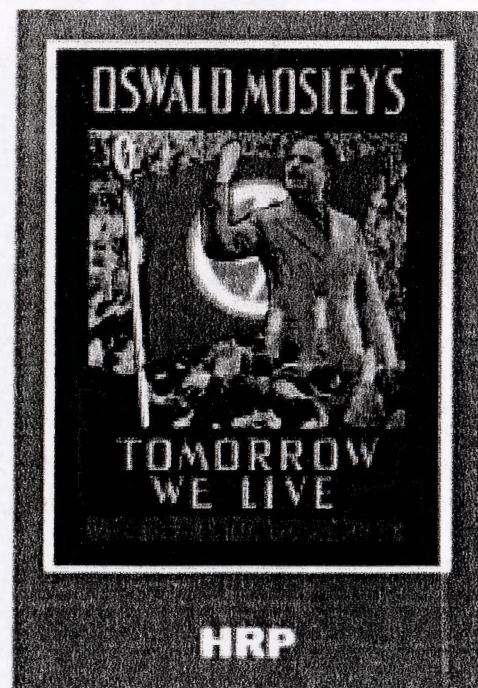

This is an attractive new printing of Mosley's most important pre-war publication. It outlines the reasons why Britain should adopt the Fascist ideal with chapters on many aspects of our national life. From economics to free speech, from the Jewish question, to foreign policy.

All the old assumptions and myths, are hereby overturned in a clear, and easy to read, truthful explanation of why, how and what needed to be done. The book has 94 pages
